PRESIDENTS REPORT

Craig JEFFERY thanked the outgoing committee for their support and dedication to the ABA. In the past twelve months all things seem to have revolved around Covid 19, who would of thought a little virus would have such a dramatic affect on how we live. Most government departments allowed employees to work from home which has interfered with our lines of communication hence no result for the NSW NPWS licensing review

This year has seen progress in Canberra with the IRA for psittacines put out for public comment we are watching this space.

Birdsales through out the country are on hold until the government lifts restrictions on public gatherings.

Our membership is solid and continuing to grow, numbers are important when dealing with local, state and federal governments.

The ABA continues to service its members with local government issues, in the past twelve months two cases of noise pollution were settled with the ABA being the mediator and both cases members retained their birds.
